Why Cans??

Wait a minute, did we say cans? Years of social prejudice have probably led you to believe cans are of lesser quality than their bottled counterparts. That simply isn't true. Pick up your dropped jaws and fan yourself if you're feeling faint—and we'll tell you why we've chosen the canned stuff over bottles.

It tastes better. While you may regard some canned brews as the cheap and unsophisticated swill of redneck-ery & college keggers—well, you might be right—but you should know that many microbreweries are offering interesting, delicious and complex beers in a can. Why? *Science alert: Cans combat light and air—the enemies of good suds. They mess with the organic compounds in beer that make them so tasty, which is a crime against humanity.

Cans are stackable. Cans are compact. They fit nicely on top of one another. All the better to carry more of your favorite beer in our coolers. (You're welcome!)

They're less breakable. Hey, accidents happen!
